ACADEMIC UNITS: 5 units per semester
ACADEMIC CREDIT: Technology Credit

DESCRIPTION - This course is designed to build on the knowledge, understanding, and practical experience of script writing and editing; computer graphics and animation, research, videotape editing and performance techniques learned in Broadcast I. Theory and hands-on activities include: camera videotaping techniques, teleprompting, screenplay writing and editing; editing, and creating commercials, public service announcements, and short story films. Students will be exposed to operation of a broadcast newsroom, ethics in film production, and media criticism. Students will gain the necessary skills and information to continue their education in the field of film production at the college level as well as the option of entry-level internships in video related fields. Students will work in teams, participating in a series of projects, which showcases their writing, editing, acting, and directing skills for film production. The goal in this course is to create a daily broadcast news show that is viewed by the entire student body and apply all the skills learned in the previous course.

PURPOSE - Throughout the year, students will create at least six commercials or public service announcements. Each story will include voice overs, cover video, research, music, a script, and graphics. To meet course objectives, including, but not limited to: six fiction stories, learn multiple studio / control room jobs, and create unpredictable content for the daily show. This advanced-level course builds on the skills learned in Broadcast I. The emphases is visual storytelling through current technology.

COURSE OBJECTIVES - By the end of this course, students will be able:

- Use electronic reference materials to gather information and produce a commercial or public service announcement with facts, graphics, and royalty free music
- Students will use Adobe Creative Suite and the Google Suite as tools to synthesize, summarize, compare, and contrast information from multiple sources, in order to create a finished product.
- Students will interpret information and draw conclusions, based on the best analysis, to make informed decisions that will help them create a script, voice overs, and an edited commercial or public service announcement.
- Students will evaluate personal character traits such as trust, respect, and responsibility to work as a team of ten to create a daily TV show for the school and community.
- Students will practice time management and efficiency to fulfill responsibilities and meet monthly, weekly, and daily deadlines.

COURSE TOPICS - The course will cover the following topics: Analyzing social teen-related issues and developing story ideas, Research and locating royalty-free music, Motion graphics and visual effects, Google Suite to document storyboard, research, and script, Abode Creative Suite to create commercial or public service announcement, TV control room vocabulary, and Internship opportunities.
